The sound check is complete. The instruments are tuned. The dancers have finished their stretches. The vocalists have warmed up their vocal chords. Lights out. It's time to rock. No crowd surfing please...

VIRTUAL FINALE

Every great Rock band saves the big hits for last, and tonight is no exception. The lights go out and the house is dark. Crowd noise is infused into the room as the drummer re-enters the stage and plays a beat. The room gets louder. The cast begins to chant. Suddenly, the music intensifies as our singers come in from the back of the house, dance on chairs, and rock out with your guests. By the end of the song the entire cast is in the audience with your guests pulling them to the dance floor, igniting an interactive audience participation dance set. Add a major confetti blast and you are in Rock and Roll Heaven!

ROCK ON!

*After the show is over,
you may be picked to come
